Ananda Valley Farm

Half Moon Bay, CA

limited to 75 subscribers

What makes our produce so unusually delicious?

- Hand harvested just 1-2 days before pickup, for peak nutritional value
- Restorative, low-till agriculture
- Biologically alive soil filled with healthy microbes
- Plants and seeds carefully chosen for flavor and vitality
- Conscious farming by long-time meditators

Ananda Valley Farm is nestled amongst hills and canyons on 67 acres of rich farmland just outside of Half Moon Bay, land that has been lovingly farmed for more than 100 years. Water is available year-round from a mountain-top spring that American Indians have long considered sacred.

“A locavore’s dream come true. As an avowed foodie, the quality of veggies in our weekly CSA box has consistently impressed me. The farming methods and coastal-canyon growing conditions at Ananda Valley Farm produce the highest quality veggies I’ve ever tasted. This is a true farm-to-table experience.”

—Robert Z, Half Moon Bay

“My week of meals came right out of this box. I rarely had to buy any other vegetables. I’m finding this produce more delicious and vital than anything I’ve ever eaten.”

—Asha N, Mountain View

“I was in awe of the bounty you produced this year. Thank you so much for such a lovely CSA experience. Several of my neighbors are also considering the CSA for next year after being gifted several weeks of our family box while we were out of town. We will absolutely subscribe next year, too.”

—Laura E, Montara
